

THE GAZETTE.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 11.

Says "Galt," in the Cincinnati Enquirer: "Some friends who were at President Cleveland's New Year's reception tell me that the president had the look of a man with the kidney disease."

When Thomas Nast was in Colorado last summer he was greatly impressed with the beauty of the state. He took a photograph of the child. From this came the engraving which embellished a recent number of Harper's Bazar as the "Christ Child." The picture has been generally recognized in Colorado.

Ex-Secretary Chandler is a regular church-goer. He has a pew at the Unitarian church, Washington, and is almost always there. I saw him in his new pew the other day. He looks a little grayer and a little less careful of his personal appearance than when he was secretary of the navy. He seems to take a good deal of interest in church affairs; attends with regularity and promptness; listens carefully to the services; joins in the responses and readings, and also takes part in the congregational singing. At least he makes his mouth go when the other people sing, and it is to be supposed that he sings too.

A telegram from Oshkosh to the Evening Wisconsin says that the Rev. I. G. Nustel, of Trinity Lutheran church of that city, in his sermon on Sunday morning, alluded to the Knights of Labor and the impossibility of the members of the Lutheran church belonging to the order. He then gave notice to his congregation that on next Sunday he will preach a sermon devoted entirely to that subject, and, if after that, numbers of his church persist in belonging to the order he will expel them from the church. The announcement has caused a great stir among the Lutheran church people and the Knights. The former predict that most of the members will stick to the church in preference to the secret order.

The latest advice from Madison indicates that Mills has the stronger backing for the speakership. A dispatch to the Sentinel says: "There seems to be an unusually large delegation of young men to the present legislature, and it is expected that a new generation is becoming prominent in politics. This element seems to be gravitating toward Mills for the speakership, and though his strongest opponent, apparently, Mr. Bartlett, is a young man, still it looks as though Mills will capture the body of the young legislators. To use an expression borrowed from the well-known Wisconsin-Williams contest for congress in the first congressional district, 'the kids' seem to have the power to control the speaker ship, and it looks as though they proposed to seat Mills in the large chair of the speaker of the assembly. The other candidates, however, do not despair, and are talking confidently. Mills is evidently in the lead, but there is no knowing what may develop and what combination be formed before the hour for the caucus."

John Roach, the noted ship builder, is dead. His life was one of the most remarkable in this country. He came here from Ireland when he was about thirteen years old. He was a poor boy, almost a beggar, when he reached the United States. A brief sketch of his first years in this country is this: "For days he walked the streets in search of work, and when night came he slept where he could, under a bench, in a wagon and areas. He usually set out for one of the brick yards in the state in hopes of getting employment. He walked all the way to Troy, living on charity by the way, and was rewarded by obtaining work in one of the brick yards near the city. The work he had to do was wheeling heavy barrels of clay on a wheelbarrow. For this he was poorly paid, but stuck to this work, and in six years after became foreman of the brick yard and obtained employment in one of the iron works of Troy. After learning his trade there he returned to Philadelphia, finding work in Howell's foundry in Jersey City. In three years he saved $1,000 but this was lost by the failure of his employer. He opened a little shop on the East river front and secured odd jobs in repairing ships, engines and furnaces. He gradually enlarged his business, extending his shop down in the region of the big ships arriving from all parts of the globe, and his future seemed bright. Shortly after his shop was burned out, and having no insurance, he was left penniless. He then took a turn at farming in Illinois, and succeeded in obtaining $1,500 which he invested in lands in that state. But when Roach went into shipbuilding, he became successful, and at one time was counted worth nearly two million dollars. He did more to put life into American ship building than any other man that ever lived in this country. At times he employed upwards of 4,000 hands, and always paid them good wages. But in the lives of many men there is a misfortune, and it came to John Roach, when the vulgar partisanship of the present administration compelled him to make an assignment. The vessels were built according to the plans of the board of engineers, and were seaworthy, but because Roach was a republican, his vessels were rejected by the secretary of war, but under the pretense of course, that they lacked in seaworthiness. The trials, afterwards, however, proved that Secretary Whitney, was a wretched partisan, and that Roach had built the ships on the best plan possible and that they were model vessels. The withholding of the contract money, threw Roach into bankruptcy, and death was not slow in following that unfortunate event.

LAUGHTER IN COURT.

CAUSED BY POINTS IN THE EMMONS' LUNACY TRIAL.

An Exchange of Wit Between an Expert and the Counsel for the Fair Defendant, Who Gets in a Few Lively Passages of Her Own—A "Substantial Decision."

WASHINGTON CITY, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Emons continues a magnet who draws to her trial each day a large crowd from the upper walks of life. Many of the spectators are ladies. The proceedings are opened with Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, in the witness box. The doctor, after observing that he had made a special study of diseases of the mind, told about his attendance upon Mrs. Emons and the conclusion he had reached concerning her sanity. She had a number of delusions, one of which was that she had been persecuted by her husband. "Father a substantial delusion," at this point remarked Mrs. Emons.

Later on the doctor testified that Mrs. Emons' conduct during this trial strengthened his opinion that she was afflicted with chronic insanity or mania, with a nervous insanity underlying it all.

Then Mrs. Emons' lawyer, Mr. Garnett, cross-examined the doctor and asked him about his examination of Mrs. Emons while she was in Bloomingdale asylum, and lawyer and witness running off on side issues for a moment, the former remarked: "Now let us go back to Bloomingdale." To this suggestion Mrs. Emons quickly interposed, "Not if I know it."

Mr. Garnett then questioned the doctor about Mrs. Emons' special delusion of persecution by her husband, and in this way cornered the doctor.

"How do you know that it was a delusion, did you ever see a wife who thought her husband persecuted her before?"

"Yes."

"Were they all insane?"

"Yes, but not talking about this case. She thought her husband persecuted her, and I don't think he did."

"So," said Mr. Garnett, "you base your belief of her insanity largely on belief. Did you know that her husband did not persecute her?"

"No."

Then he took the doctor back on board the cross-examination and asked: "You said she asked Dr. Komptor to take a seat on the floor of the cabin. Now, is it not true that there were only three seats?"

"Yes, there was only room for about three."

"Just after she asked you, and then Dr. Komptor if she was insane, she left the state to sail in a witness to the conversation, did she not?"

"Yes."

A GREAT SHIPBUILDER DEAD.

John Roach Finds Successor of Suffering—Sudden Death of a Jurist.

New York, Jan. 11.—The death of John Roach, the shipbuilder, which, as stated in these dispatches yesterday was momentarily expected, took place Monday morning at 8 o'clock. The cause of his death was the same disease that killed Gen. Grant—cancer of the throat. His sufferings have been intense, but only of late has the public known even the nature of the dread disease. The fearful ravages of cancer have been borne with the most heroic endurance for months without a murmur.

Around his bedside were the widow and her children, John B. Roach and his wife, Garrett Roach and his wife, Stephen W. Roach (the youngest), Mrs. William McPherson, of Philadelphia (the oldest daughter), and Miss Amelia Roach, Mr. John Wadley, a nephew of Mr. Roach, and Dr. Taylor and Rev. Mr. Gosse. The servants stood in a little group in a doorway looking at their old master pass away. Mr. Roach had been unable to articulate for several days, and when he wanted anything he wrote his wish on a piece of paper. Early Sunday the opiates lost their effect. He could not sleep and moved uneasily until he lost consciousness. He did not recover consciousness, and his death was apparently painless, being directly due to exhaustion.

Mr. Roach spoke his last words to Dr. Belden Sunday night. He mentioned that he wanted to speak, and Dr. Belden bent over him.

"How long—how long before?" he whispered. "It is almost over," replied the physician. "Are you glad that your suffering will be at an end soon?" "Yes, oh, glad," answered the dying man.

The members of the family say that the cancer was confined to the roof of the mouth and the nostrils, and that all the reports to the effect that the cancerous growth extended down the throat were erroneous. Mr. Roach left a will. It is understood that of his real estate affairs have been settled there will be left for his family over $1,000,000. His funeral will probably take place on Thursday.

(John Roach was born in Ireland in 1818 and was according to his own statement, "When I was 10 years old he came to this country, without friends or capital, and found employment in a foundry at Lowell, Mass. By steady industry he accumulated a small capital, with which he established a small foundry in New York, later known as the 22d St. Iron Works. He then purchased the Morgan Iron Works, the Neptune and the Franklin forges, and still later the Alliance. In 1871 he bought the shipyard at Chester, Pa., and in 1872 the work of building iron ships, in which business he achieved a world-wide reputation. He is popularly known as the father of American iron shipbuilding. At the commencement of his business he employed only four men, but later he had 3,000 hands on his payroll. In 1881 he became financially embarrassed, from which condition he never fully recovered. His embarrassment was emphasized by the rejection of the steamship Belgen by the admiralty department, which precipitated his assignment, assisted by the general depression in iron industries that year. His assignment was, however, in no sense a failure, as his assets were largely in excess of his liabilities.)

EVERY PASSENGER INJURED.

A Train with Seventy-Five People on Board Derailed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 11.—The Indianapolis & Vincennes passenger train, leaving here Monday night, was derailed from the track about three miles from this city by a broken rail. The train was running at a high speed, and all the coaches left the track, rolling down an embankment.

There were about seventy-five passengers aboard, nearly all of whom were more or less injured, but no one was killed.

Among the injured are: S. J. Allen, of Lyons, leg broken and bruised about the head; John Quackenbush, of Sheridan, leg broken.

The injuries received by the other passengers were of a serious character. A wrecking train was sent out and the injured brought to the city, where they received medical treatment.

Lady Hotel Guests in Peril.

DRS. MOORE, Iowa, Jan. 11.—Fire was discovered Monday in the building 288 Fourth street, occupied by McCord & Work, furniture dealers. The second and third floors constituted a part of a European hotel and the flames spread so rapidly that the escape of several lady guests was cut off. By heroic efforts of the firemen, however, they were rescued from the third-story windows and landed safely on the pavement. The loss will probably exceed $50,000.

Wouldn't Go Into a Caucus. BOROV, 11.—At a meeting of Republican members of the legislature, a motion to hold a caucus Thursday afternoon to select a candidate for senator was vigorously opposed by members who intimated that they would not go into a caucus. It was finally decided to hold a "conference," which will not be considered binding like a caucus.

THE MARKETS.

Excitement in Texas. Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Paris, Texas, by the discovery of a large deposit of oil. The discovery was made by a party of prospectors who were exploring for oil. They struck a large deposit of oil, and the excitement was great. The oil is said to be of the best quality, and the discovery is a great boon to the state.

THE BUSINESS WORLD.

Encouraging Prospects for the Great West—Better Prices—Plenty of Work—Flourishing Demand in all Sections.

The general trade prospects for the year 1887 are brighter than were the prospects for the phenomenal year of 1882 when railroad construction reached 12,000 miles of main track, and when an enormous production of all kinds of goods and manufactured products took place. That year was a speculative one when values were bounding upward. During this year business will be conducted upon a legitimate basis. Farmers, planters, railroaders, manufacturers, business men and mechanics will profit most by the advance in prices and speculators of all kinds will profit least. While the past year shows 10,508 failures with liabilities of over $113,000,000, the commercial conditions are decidedly better. Credit is stronger. Manufacturers, jobbers and retailers are carrying larger stocks and confidence in every direction is leading to an expenditure for supplies which we have never before witnessed. All markets are exceptionally active. Manufacturers are running full capacity in textile goods, in iron and steel, hardware, lumber tools, implements and in hundreds of the lesser industries.

These remarkably encouraging conditions are likely to continue throughout 1887. Manufacturers now count that the impulse which has been given will last at least during this year and that prices will gradually creep upward, but that the improvement will not reach such a point as to drive the great consuming public into the practice of economy.

The labor question is not likely to assume the dangerous phases it assumed last year. In several cities east and west for more money and fewer hours. A more conservative and friendly feeling prevails. The workmen throughout the country feel that an agitation which would result in strikes or lockouts would be disastrous to the improving prospects and they are very generally declaring themselves already on the side of peace.

The production of iron and steel in 1886 went far beyond that of 1885, and there is now sold not less than $100,000,000 worth of material for 1887 in the iron and steel making industries. The production of iron and steel in 1886 went far beyond that of 1885, and there is now sold not less than $100,000,000 worth of material for 1887 in the iron and steel making industries.

Out of 3,000 flouring mills in Great Britain only 6,000,000 sacks out of the 36,000,000 sacks of flour made in them in 1886 were shipped to America. The rest was consumed in England and Germany. American machinery makers are increasing their sales of milling machinery rapidly in Great Britain.

The western and northwestern agricultural and wool growing interest have a better year before them than they have had for years. The prospects are to-day that there will be an active demand for all the agricultural products which can be supplied, and that the demand for wool will stimulate wool growing greatly. Prices of breadstuffs throughout the east are improving. The improving industrial conditions throughout the states east of the Mississippi river will likely greatly increase the demand for cereal products, and materially help the farmers beyond the Mississippi.

The building trades throughout the United States have just closed an exceptionally prosperous year. Taking into account the time-lapse and the higher wages paid, the building trades have been from 15 to 20 per cent. better off this last year than in 1885.

Twenty Years Record.

Rev. J. W. Mahop, Putnam Co., N. Y., writes:—"About twenty years ago I was laid aside for nearly a year, nearly with a severe cold and congestion of the lungs, and was nearly discouraged when I providentially came across Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer. In a short time I found myself completely cured. Since that time I have used it with universal success in my family."

Washington, when asked by a friend during what proved to be his last sickness, to take some medicine for his cold, replied, "I never take medicine for my cold, but I take Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer, the great remedy for coughs and colds. Price, 25 and 50 cents and $1 per bottle. For sale at all druggists."

Albany.

On next Sabbath, the Baptist society will dedicate their new church edifice, and continue the service the usual Sunday service. A Sunday school will be organized, and the work of saving souls entered upon with renewed zeal. The building committee are to be congratulated on their exhibition of good taste in adopting a plan which combines all the requirements and is a credit to the place. The auditorium is furnished with comfortable chairs, an innovation on the old method, but practically in keeping with advanced ideas. The furnace and boiler, a late improvement, occupies a portion of the basement, with an adjustment of steam radiators for heating the building. An oil on the south will serve as parlor for official and other meetings connected with the church.

The progress committee, to be held Sunday the 15th inst., will undertake to grapple with the great question of the universe, and its sequence, as applied to the universe, in the following proposition: "Resolved, That the universe is governed by law and not by a personal God."

Union church, recently completed in the English settlement north of this place, resulted from a union of effort and exemplified the truthfulness of the maxim "In Union there is Strength." The church building was sorely needed in the community and the thoughtful ones wisely concluded to hitch teams. Dedication services were held last Sunday and a sufficient amount paid into the treasury to wipe out every dollar of indebtedness.

The extreme cold weather of the past week served to check the volume of business at this point, but with more favorable weather, this week shows signs of making up the average. The holiday week aggregated larger sales than last week.

THE DAILY GAZETTE.

Has increased its circulation twenty-five per cent during the past year. As an advertising medium it is recognized as reliable and effective.

The WEEKLY GAZETTE is without a rival in the county. The rates of advertising are always based upon circulation.

If you have anything to say to the people of the city or county you can speak to more of them through the columns of the GAZETTE than through any other medium published in the same territory.

Directors.

—Some of Janesville's citizens are "seeing a man" at Madison to-day.

—Oriental Lodge No. 22, Knights of Pythias, assemble in regular weekly session at Castle hall this evening.

—Janesville City Lodge No. 90, I. O. O. F., occupy Odd Fellows hall this evening—regular weekly meeting.

—Reserved seats for "Woman Against Woman" will be for sale at Prentice & Eyenson's after to-morrow morning.

—The Trinity Church Sewing Society will meet with Mrs. C. F. Fox, 52 West Bluff street, first ward, on Wednesday afternoon.

—General Hazen is requested heretofore not to leave all the drawers of the weather bureau open at once, says a frost bitten exchange.

—Special religious services will be held at the Baptist church on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings. [All are invited.]

—There was an interesting progressive outdoor party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fordland Quinn, Main street, Third ward last evening.

—It was also called to our attention once more that the man who leaves snow on his sidewalk is he who drops buttons in the contribution box.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Kent, corner of North Bluff and North Fourth streets, second ward, pleasantly entertained a large company of friends last evening.

—The stockholders of the First National Bank held their annual meeting this morning. There was nothing done except to re-elect the present board of directors for another year.

—The new eight-hole pipe for the artesian well has arrived and Mr. Swan is now at work again sinking the well, and hopes soon to secure a flow of water.

—Gehrbrunn Bros. have just received their first importation of Clydesdales for this year. They came through in good shape and are fine specimens of the breed.

—The water works meeting at the rink accomplished one thing at least. Those citizens that now suffer from incipient consumption, will admit this, and shiver in memory of their experience.

—On Friday evening it is likely that the opera house will be well filled, for the sale of tickets to the children's concert, has been large. There will be an entertainment presented that cannot fail to please.

—Mr. and Mrs. Levi Fatzinger hospitably entertained a number of their friends at their home in the second ward last evening, the occasion being the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage.

—Miss Alice Walker, daughter of the Rev. Thomas Walker, has gone to Evanston, Illinois, where she will take a course of study in the Conservatory of Music at the Northwestern University, at that place.

—It is understood that neither the show last night nor "Ranch 10" that appeared on Christmas was booked by the present management of the opera house. Both companies came here on old contracts that they refused to relinquish.

—Newton, the bicyclist, is still in the city. He has sent for apparatus and intends to practice riding the tight wire with a single wheel. It is accomplished the feat he will probably secure an engagement with Forough's show for next season.

—Yesterday afternoon at five o'clock a meeting of the Associated Charities was held and reports made from the different wards as to the work done. Although there is less destitution this winter than there was last the association has had all the work that could be attended to, and have relieved much suffering.

—While the cut-off was building, it will be remembered that Conductor Penfield was laid off for carrying some Janesville young ladies on his construction train. His many friends will be glad to hear that he has been given his old run once more. He had served the road faithfully for a long time, and in recognition of this fact was reinstated.

—Word came from Madison to-day that the supreme court of the state in the case of Hemmingsway against the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul R.R. Co., reversed the judgment in the lower court, while affirming the judgment in the case of McKelvey against the city of Janesville. The city will now have to pay the McKelvey heirs about $2,100 damages and costs, all on account of a defective and neglected cross-walk down in the fourth ward.

—Having secured the consent of the owners of adjoining property to build a toboggan slide on South First street one of our well known young men whose name can not yet be made public, will very probably put one up as soon as he can make the necessary arrangements. The council has given him permission to run the chute across Main street provided that it is at least twelve feet above the ground.

—The funeral of Mrs. Julia Chase was held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from the residence of Mr. R. P. Young, North Fourth street, second ward. Brief but impressive services were held, conducted by the Rev. M. C. Hodge, of the Baptist church. The song service was rendered by a quartette consisting of Miss Elsie Darnbom, Mrs. Chas. L. Clark, Messrs. Frank L. Hayden and Clarence L. Clark. The remains were taken to Oak Hill for interment, the pall bearers being Messrs. A. Hoskins, J. A. Leland, S. C. Burnham and Emory Patch.

—Referring to Hon. James Sutherland's new book, "Talks on Living Subjects," the Garnet (Kansas) Eagle says: "There has just been issued from the press of Fleming H. Revell, Chicago, a book entitled "Talks on Living Subjects," by James Sutherland. One of the three subjects treated in, "The Evils and Cure of Intemperance." The author devotes a couple of pages to the Anti-Saloon National Conference, and ends by saying: "There is good reason to hope that this conference will result in all that its friends expected, and prove an important epoch in the history of political reform."

—"Ten Nights in a Bar Room" was presented at the opera-house last evening. There was a good sized audience present. Some parts of the play were very affecting, or would be had the parts been represented by artists capable of producing a drama so full of pathetic scenes as "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." As it was, the most of the play fell flat for lack of proper talent on the stage. Some parts were very well acted, and were greeted with applause, but as a whole the company was not received with much favor. Some of the scenic effects were excellent, especially that at the death scene of little Mary Morgan in the fourth act. There is a good moral running through the play and in the hands of artists would please theatregoers.

FOUND RELIEFS.

A Well to do Mazamontie Citizen Suffered with Paralysis at Janesville Hotel.

Last evening there appeared at the office of the Central house an elderly man named Nicholas Kirk, who engaged a room for the night. He ate supper and after that went into the office where he remained until about eleven o'clock. At that hour he went to bed being in apparent good health.

This morning the landlord heard what he thought was a call for help, and, as he went up stairs, heard the noise of something falling. He entered Kirk's room and found him lying on the floor, unable to move. Dr. Sutherland was called, and saw at once that the man was partially paralyzed. Only one side was affected, the other being in its normal condition. The patient was carried down stairs where a bed was prepared, and at a late hour this afternoon he was resting quite easily.

It was learned that he was from Mazamontie where he owns considerable property. His relatives were telegraphed to, and answered that they would be here on the first train.

How to Gain Flesh and Strength.

Use after each meal Scott's Emulsion; it is a palatable and easily digested food. Delicately people improve rapidly with it. For Consumption, Throat affections and Bronchitis it is unequalled. Dr. Thos. Price, Ala., says: "I need Scott's Emulsion on a child eight months old; he gained four pounds in a month."

"Woman Against Woman."

Effie Ellsler, who is to appear at the Myers opera house on Thursday evening, is winning laurels wherever she goes. The usually arduous and impressive Eugene Field, of the Chicago News, wrote of her: "She is all that is involved in suffering womanhood, in a stricken mother, in a wronged wife. Her hand sweeps the chords of emotion, and quickens them into vibrating life. There was scarcely a dry eye in the house, and men and women sobbed in sympathy with her. She has struck us genuine, as true, and as full responsive chord of pathos, as ever was touched by real suffering in every day life. Then in this extremity, the enemy who had wrought the ruin and evil, appeared to taunt her and glory in her work; then the woman was driven to turn, and with a superb burst of scorn and indignation, she dashed her enemy to the floor and told the truth, which cleared her own character from suspicion, and showed how easily she had been wronged. It was done with such power and intensity of passionate emotion, that the audience was carried irresistibly with her, and Effie Ellsler has won a complete and unqualified triumph."

—"Throat all swollen gets well of itself, but depends until it undermines the constitution, wastes away health, strength and flesh, and finally fastens itself on the lungs, completing the wreck and ruin of the whole man." The Empire Cross Spring Company.

It will be seen by a notice in this paper that a change has been made in the Empire Cross Spring Company, Mr. Sutton Norris retiring, and his place being filled by Mr. P. J. Coffman, the firm name remaining unchanged. Mr. Coffman is the resident agent of Sutherland Bros., Chicago, wholesale tobacconists, and has charge of their business in Janesville, and is a gentleman full of business energy.

The Empire Cross Spring Company is one of the leading manufacturing industries of Janesville, and is doing a most prosperous and profitable business at this time. They manufacture all kinds of buggies, sleighs, and omnibuses to order.

Among their recent sales is a genuine Russian sleigh, to Elmer Knodelson, Governor J. M. Root, which will take rank as one of the finest in the west.

The company is the sole manufacturer of the celebrated Empire Cross and St. Julien spring, of which they ship annually hundreds of sets throughout the entire country. The quality of their work is not surpassed by any firm in the country. They have just received an order from a livyman in LaCrosse for a house, wagonette and several carriages. It speaks well for any firm when orders come from the larger cities for their goods. The Empire Cross Spring Company are deserving of the success they have achieved, and may the future see a continuation of their good fortune.
